Discussion Questions

1. Is not wanting to go to hell enough of a reason to trust Jesus as my Savior? Is that shallow and immature of me, to only to care about me?

2. Surely, I need to contribute something? Even if I just leave a tip and let Jesus pay for dinner, I need to put something into the deal. My salvation shouldn't be a free lunch? That just doesn't seem right.

3. So, if I place my faith in Jesus and trust His death on the cross for the payment of my sin, I can live my life however I want but know when I die, I'm headed to heaven.

4. The thief on the cross asked Jesus to remember him when He came into His Kingdom. What did Jesus then tell him he needed to do to be saved?

5. I trusted Christ as my Savior years ago but don't feel saved anymore. Should I be worried?
